MEDIATORS READY

Financial Circles Anxious That a Break May Be Averted; Situation Regarded SeriousNEW YORK, Aug. 9.—A strike of 400,000 railway employees on the railways of the United States was averted today. This was assured this afternoon when President A. E. Garretson of the Order of Railway Conductors, announced that the brotherhood of employees would accept mediation by the federal board of mediation and conciliation.The proposal that federal mediators be called upon was made four hours earlier by the railroad representatives, but the brotherhood leaders at that time declined to consider this plan. Careful consideration of the proposal, however, led them to change their attitude.NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The big railroads of the country are willing to arbitrate their differences with their employees. When the conference between committees representing the railroads and the four principal unions was resumed today, Elsie Lee, chairman of the railroad committee, read a communication addressed to the four labor leaders suggesting that the differences be arbitrated by the federal mediation board. Lee in his statement, said:"We have given careful consideration to all phases of the propositions which you have made. The demands are so extraordinary that we feel there is little probability of reaching a settlement through the medium of conferences. We therefore believe the only recourse to be pursued is to submit the whole question to the federal mediation board, and we respectfully invite you to join us in making such an application."The leaders of the union declined to accept this proposition at present, declaring their belief that more could be accomplished by conferences.In reply to the proposition, A. E.
Garretson, spokesman for the four brotherhoods said that the men did not believe that intervention of a third party necessary and that they declined to join in the request for mediation."In my opinion," he said, "the men and employers should get together before mediation steps are taken."Mr. Lee, replying to Mr. Garretson said that if he (Garretson) and his associates declined to join the railroads in application for mediation he (Lee) and his associates would proceed at once to make such an application.The other three labor leaders then announced that they fully confirmed what Mr. Garretson had said.Mr. Lee then announced an adjustment until some word could be had from the mediation board. Mr.
Garretson and his associates signified their willingness to wait a reasonable time for a report.In financial circles which generally reflect the real situation when an industrial struggle threatens, the belief prevails that arbitration will ward off a strike. In view of the wealth which is pouring into American coffers owing to the pre-eminent commercial position of the United States during the European war, no effort will be spared to keep the prosperity uninterrupted.It is probable that within 24 hours a suggestion of federal mediation will be made and accepted. Members of the federal board of mediation and conciliation are in New York today in expectation that they will be invited to act.The board will not act without a request from the opposing sides unless the situation comes to an open break between the railroad managers and the leaders of the employees' brotherhoods. The mediators, however, will take the initiative if the negotiations come to a deadlock. The first suggestion that the federal mediators be asked to act is expected to come from the railroads. The brotherhood leaders probably will exhaust every possible argument before they consent to mediation.NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Striking street car men resumed their work on the lines in Richmond and Queens today in pursuance of the settlement reached yesterday and within a few hours the service probably will be normal.Estimates made today placed the cost of the strike to the street railways involved at $348,000. This includes lost revenue, bonuses paid to loyal employees, strike-breakers, guards, etc.The union leaders, jubilant over their success, are continuing their efforts to organize the subway employees and the men working for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

Head Ohio Democrats;
Herrick Is WinnerCOLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Complete unofficial returns today from 2,851 precincts in 69 of the 88 counties gave, in the United States senatorial fight:Republican, Herrick 67,329; Daugherty, 27,914; Dick, 11,493.
Democratic, Pomerene, 41,061; Lentz, 21,617.As this covers half of the total vote in the state it is estimated that only about 210,000 republicans and 150,000 democrats voted at the primaries Tuesday. Two years ago, when the direct primary was inaugurated, 204,020 democrats and 230,696 republicans voted.The vote indicated that Herrick would have a margin of 85,000 over Daugherty and 115,000 more votes than Dick. Pomerene was defeating Lentz 2 to 1, the estimated totals being Pomerene 82,000, Lentz 43-000.It was estimated that in the gubernatorial fight Governor Willis would have about 180,000 votes to about 15,000 each for R. A. Mack, of Cincinnati, and George W. Shaw, of Cleveland.Indications were that only about one-third of the 68,000 who voted against former Governor Cox for the 1914 nomination still nursed grudges. Democratic leaders expected Cox to poll 115,000 votes to about 20,000 for A. P. Sandies, of Ottawa and 15,000 for J. C. Martin, of Greenville.A large percentage of electors voted only for senator and governor.This fact leaves the result on the balance of the state tickets where there were contests very much in doubt.Earl D. Bacon, a Bowling Green lawyer-farmer, was running neck and neck with Senator E. J. Hopple, of Cleveland, for the democratic nomination for lieutenant governor and seemed to have a slight advantage. For the same office on the republican ticket it appeared that John B. Arnold, present incumbent, had a fair lead over Abram W.
Agler, of Stark county.Two other fights which may take complete returns to decide were for auditor of state on the republican ticket and attorney general on the democratic side.The rural vote of Hayes M. Adams, auditor of Erie county, promised to wipe out the margin given Joseph T. Tracy, of Portsmouth in the cities for auditor. Tracy admitted today the fight was close but said he expected to win.Indications were that Joseph Mc-Ghee, of Wellston, the candidate two years ago, had been voted a second trial over Scott Stahl, of Port Clinton, the organization choice brought out by former Secretary of State Charles H. Graves, of Toledo, in the democratic race for attorney general.
Thornton R. Snyder, of Cincinnati, appears to have won the democratic nomination for secretary of state.

former prosecutor appears to have a lead Auglaize county of 367, in Mercer of 595, and in Shelby of about 300, although Studevant is admittedly far ahead of either there.Cunningham has carried Allen by 556, Miami by about 200, and Darke by 12. The latter upset the hope as a result of the small vote cast, the greatest evidence of the reported Welty strength being a plurality of 200 in Greenville.For the state central committee ter trio raised the figures seven

Although overshadowed in interest by the primaries, the school issue attracted enough attention to win a place in the conversation of the streets last night.Especially on the south side, where the new high school is to be located, did the majorities amount to high percentages. The vote there was light all around, but many voted for the bonds who would otherwise have not attended the election at all, and the votes for county officers are far fewer than were those cast for the school projects.Superintendent J. E. Collins, to whom much of the credit for the passage of the issue is due because of his presentation of statistical data setting forth the needs of the local educational system, expressed gratification today at the handsome manner in which the city pushed through the bonds. Especially gratifying, he stated, was the fact that the majorities were well scattered throughout the city, as it has been the aim of the board of education to prevent the question from assuming a sectional aspect.

DROWNS IN BATH TUB.

Simon Kay, shortly before noon today was drowned in a bath-tub in his home. Police worked over the child with a pulmotor for 45 minutes, but failed to revive him.Police say Mrs. Kay had filled the tub half full of water and set the child in it preparatory to giving him his daily bath. She was then called to the front porch by a neighbor and the bath room, found her child lying contest were unavailable at press time, but appearances indicated that E. A. Miller had won by about 30 votes. John G. Tait was the runner-up.Dr. V. H. Hay is about 250 votes ahead of Burt Hibbard for coroner, but the final returns have not yet been footed.On the republican side of the fence, Dr. Herr appears to have run ahead of Jasper Cochran for representative, no other contests being present on the ticket. Herrick leads Daugherty by a two-to-one majority, in Allen county, the rest of the field

being negligible.On the democratic state ticket figures are less accurately compiled, as the election board started after the local contests first. For attorney general, Joseph McGhee of Jackson, is easily the victor in the county, his vote being 1,578. Schwenck drew 664 and Scott Stahl, 945. Cox carries the county by a large majority, as does Pomerene. The latter was cut in Bluffton and in Richland township.Late returns indicate that republican State Central Committee Chairman William L. Parmenter has carried away Allen county by a vote of 1,380 to 690 ahead of James W.
Halhill, German township being the only missing precinct. As he has a strong organization in the other five counties, with committee endorsements, his re-election to the state committee appears assured.

INDIANS' FAME IS INCREASING AS HIS NUMBERS DWINDLE

His Poetry and Art Studied, Praised and Imitated.

New York Has Great Museum to House Red Man's Relics.

(By Frederic J. Haskin.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—For some years past the importance and popularity of the American Indian have increased almost as fast as his numbers have dwindled. His remains in the shape of skeletons and broken pottery have been assiduously collected and studied. Learned men have journeyed long distances to gather the stories of the tribes from the lips of the few survivors. Indian art has been studied, praised and imitated. In a word, now that they have for the most part either died or lost their identity by intermarriage the Indians are famous.

Fame in America always leads to Broadway, and at Broadway the American Indian has now arrived. His remains are going to be housed in a building at 155th street that will cost a quarter of a million dollars. It will be called the Museum of the American Indian, Heye foundation, and will be the first museum in the world devoted exclusively to the collection and study of the artifacts of the American aborigine. The museum has already been organized, and is at present occupying several floors of a business building on East Thirty-Third street, where its distinguished scientific staff is now struggling with a mass of interesting material which is being sent in by expeditions in South America, the West Indies, and Arkansas. For this is a very up-to-date, active sort of a museum. It is backed by a number of New York's best known millionaires, including James B. Ford, Minor C. Keith and Archer Huntington. It is going after the antiquities in the most modern manner.

Whatever else we may have done to poor Lo we have not neglected him. While he lived we equipped elaborate expeditions to hunt him down and kill him, and now that he is dead we spend millions fitting out still more elaborate expeditions to dig up and preserve his remains.

The basis of this new museum is the remarkable collection of George G. Heye. Mr. Heye is a man of great wealth, who shares the collecting instinct which seems to be one of the common characteristics of the American millionaire. When a young man Mr. Heye went to Arizona, and saw there the quaint towns of the Pueblo tribes, the old adobe missions of the Spanish padres, the herds and hogan of the nomad Navajos. The romance and picturesque quality of the southwest which is an unspiced bit of the long ago, inspired the young man. He determined to devote his life and wealth to the study of pre-Columbian America. He has sent over 30 expeditions to all parts of North and South America and West Indies. His collection contains about 400,000 specimens, and is worth over half a million. It has never before been accessible either to the public or to scientists. It is said to include some works in marble and gold from South America which show that the ancient civilizations of that continent were not far behind those of Europe in some of the arts.

This collection is now to be laid before the public and the scientific world, while a competent staff will work with every facility to increase and perfect it. A special feature of the new museum will be a study room where scientists will be given special opportunities for the examination of the specimens.

This up-to-date institution is not going to confine its activities to the study of the dead Indian. It is keenly aware that the Indian is still with us. True he has been modified by civilization and intermarriage; but he is still an Indian at heart, generally a pagan, and the lore and story of his people are safely preserved in the wonderful memory which belongs to all races that have not invented the written word. So the live Indian will be the object of much attention from this new museum.

Take the Iroquois, or Five Nations, who lived in New York before the Irish and the Jews arrived. They are popularly supposed to have disappeared. It is not so. They have merely been overshadowed in its palmy days, the Iroquois confederacy could put about ten thousand warriors in the field. If they had to, the Iroquois could very nearly do it today. True, the warriors would not all be pure-blooded Indians. Neither would they be able to respond with the old time alacrity. Some of them would have to desert important business positions, others political jobs; many would leave their fertile farms with reluctance, while quite a few would be compelled to jump theatrical contracts. Nevertheless there are nearly as many persons of Iroquois blood now as there ever were. The bulk of them are living on their reservations in New York state; there are usually thirty or forty of them in New York City—mostly theatrical braves. Immediately after the revolution a number of them moved to Canada, because they had fought on the British side. A large number of these are fighting on the British side right now. Whole companies of Iroquois have gone from Canada to serve in the European war.

A member of the scientific staff of the Heye museum was recently visiting the Menominee Indians in Wisconsin, and was amazed at the number of veterans of the Civil war he found among them. There is one chapter of the Grand Army of the Republic which has a membership almost exclusively Indian, and these old soldiers were able to tell most interesting stories of the war from their own peculiar point of view. One of them, with his brother, took part in Sherman's march to the sea. He related that in one engagement the two of them gained the victory for the Union. The Confederates were advancing in overwhelming force. The two Indians realized that nothing could save the day but divine intervention, so they uttered a prayer to the Thunder Birds. Forthwith a terrific thunderstorm came up, drenching the Confederates and wetting their powder, while the Union forces remained dry and victorious. Historical research shows that there was such a battle; and that it was decided by a shower of rain, but the books make no mention of the Thunder Birds.

Some of these Indians did invaluable service as scouts and spies in the Civil war. One of them still tells the story of how he escaped after he had been captured by a small detachment of Confederate soldiers. He had a fine horse, which had been used for fox hunting, and was a noted jumper. The Confederates made him put his hands in the air and ride in front of them. Presently they went down the road with a high fence on either side. At this point the Indian had a must peculiar seizure. He began to squirm and twist and wriggle in his saddle. The Confederate officer asked him what was the matter. He explained that some kind of a bug had bitten him in the middle of the back, and he was crazy with the desire to scratch. His contortions were so expressive that the officer began to feel itchy himself. Finally he told the Indian, who had been disarmed, to scratch and be done with it. The Indian had a gun cleverly concealed in his sleeve. He carefully scratched around to this, drew it, shot the officer's mount, jumped his own over the fence, and escaped because there was no other horse in the detachment that could follow.

In addition to studying the Indians that are still with us, the scientists of this new and enterprising museum are making a special study of material near home. Dr. Alanson Skinner, of the scientific staff, formerly assistant curator of the Museum of Natural History, has just returned from an expedition of the Susquehanna river valley. This was a most unusual exploring expedition in that it generally camped on farms or in the suburbs of cities. Nevertheless, interesting remains were discovered of a little-known and remarkable tribe of Indians—the Andastes of Conestogas. These Indians lived along the Susquehanna in the days before the famous Iroquois confederacy reached its greatest strength. About the only white man who ever saw much of them alive was Captain John Smith, who came over about three hundred years ago.

He says that these Andastes were the finest Indians he ever saw. They were of immense stature; and it has been estimated that they stood nearly six and a half feet in height. Their bearing was very polite and friendly. They were great hunters, as shown by the fact that they dressed themselves in the skins of bears and wolves, which are not easy to kill without a gun. One of their favorite sports was killing bears with clubs in hand-to-hand fights. Captain Smith was especially interested in their great stone tobacco pipes, which he said were nearly a yard long, and heavy enough to beat out a man's brain with.

This tribe perished because it was too proud to admit it was beaten. The Andastes warriors had a way of preferring death to surrender, which was very heroic, but hard on the tribes as a whole. They whipped the Iroquois and they whipped the whites. Then the Iroquois, and the whites combined against them. Most of them were killed and the few survivors absorbed by other tribes.

Mr. Skinner's expedition found a burial ground of this tribe near Athens, Pennsylvania. A number of their great tobacco pipes, bits of their pottery and other interesting remains were unearthed.

The average modern American thinks of the Indian only as a band of savages who tried to murder his grandfather. He does not think of the long centuries before Columbus came when these first Americans possessed the land in peace and worked at the problems of existence and struggled toward better ways of living, just as we are doing today. In Peru, in Mexico and in New York there were then young civilizations of great promise. There were also in America naked savages making the first crude experiments with stone and fire, and all intermediate stages of development were represented.

The story of pre-Columbian America is that of a man making the crude beginnings of civilization. It is the first chapter of our own story, and therefore immensely significant and interesting. These scientists are striving to put it together and read it bit by bit, from the crumbled remains of cities and peoples that were.

KENTON ELKS WILL HAVE BIG BARBECUE

Kenton lodge, No. 157, B. P. O. Elks, will hold a grand barbecue on next Wednesday. The hours are from 9:30 to 6:30 o'clock. The famous chef, Col. Frank Krippner of Kentucky, will be in charge. He is a member of Cincinnati lodge of Elks and has conducted some of the largest barbecues in the country. There will be everything good to eat and drink and amusements of interest to everyone. Kent P. Johnson is exalted ruler of Kenton lodge and Henry Born, secretary. It is expected Lima lodge will be well represented at the barbecue.

MRS. ALICE CRAIG IS APOPLEXY VICTIM

Stricken with apoplexy on Sunday, Mrs. Alice Elizabeth Craig, mother of Mrs. William C. Bell, of 115 North Jameson avenue, passed away at her daughter's home last night at 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. Craig never recovered consciousness. She was spending a week or ten days at the home of her son, Harry R. Craig, of East Circular street, when she was stricken. Since the death of her husband, Samuel R. Craig, three years ago, Mrs. Craig had resided with Mrs. Bell.

She was born on February 6, 1853, in Lewistown, Ohio. For 33 years she had been a resident of Lima, during which time she was affiliated with the Market street Presbyterian church. She was a good mother and saw her devoted family reared to man and womanhood. Surviving children are M. A. Craig, of Bellefontaine avenue, Lima; W. B. Craig, of Kansas City, Mo.; Harry R. Craig, of East Circular street, Lima; Glen Craig, of New York City; Mrs. W. C. Knoop, of Baltimore, Md.; and Mrs. Bell of Lima. W. B. Craig, of Kansas City, and Glen Craig, of New York, arrived here yesterday before the passing away of their mother.

Mrs. T. F. Clark, of 129 North Cole street, Mrs. E. F. Ellis of Toledo, and Mrs. H. C. Wilgus of West Mansfield, are sisters. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of her daughter on Jameson avenue. The Rev. J. Norman King, pastor of Olivet Presbyterian church, will conduct the services, in the absence of Dr. Thomas Knox of Market street church. The body will be laid to rest at Woodlawn.

MRS. RALPH WELCH PNEUMONIA VICTIM

Mrs. Ralph Welch, 25 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ridenour of near Elida, died Thursday at her home on South Main street in Delphos. She was ill but a short time from pneumonia. She was married on April 2, 1914, at the home of and by the Rev. A. W. Balinger in Lima. The parents, husband, young daughter, three sisters and two brothers are left.

Sisters are Mrs. Thomas Price of Gomer, Mrs. Louis Odenweller of Cleveland and Miss Ruth Ridenour, who resides at home. Adrian and Richard Ridenour, brothers, also reside at home.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the South Main street United Brethren church in Delphos, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Davis, pastor at Elida. Interment will be at Walnut Grove cemetery.

WILD SCENES ON CHICAGO EXCHANGE

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Amid scenes of tremendous excitement, September wheat opened on the Board of Trade today at $1.40, as compared with the closing price of $1.33% yesterday. December showed an advance of 8 cents. The advances were attributed to the bullish government report issued yesterday. Corn also scored a sensational advance, the September market opening at $5 against a close yesterday of $3.34. Oats responded to the frantic trading in the other pits and September opened at 45 to 44% after yesterday's close of 43%.

Trading was more exciting than it has been for a long time, despite the fact that there have been recent sharp advances, which in a little more than a month have carried wheat from $1.06 to $1.40.

Reports from the northwest indicated that damage to the growing crops had not ceased. Winnipeg cash was reported 10 cents higher and opening cables from Liverpool made higher quotations.

Provisions responded to the bullish sentiment of the general market and were higher.

RICHE HAILED AS GRAND OLD PYTHIAN

Lima's Noted Citizen Boosts Buckeye State in an Interview.

Hon. Walter B. Richie, of Lima, who is attending the biennial session of the Supreme Lodge of Pythians in Portland, Oregon, broke into the limelight of publicity in voluminous style, after the adoption of his addition to the new work to the ritual. In a big four-column picture with other prominent Pythians at the session, in the Evening edition, Mr. Richie's picture stood out foremost with the insignia of the order surrounding it.

An article, published in the same edition of the Telegram, is as follows:

"Grand Old Man of Pythianism is Walter B. Richie, of Lima, Ohio." This title is given Richie because he is the author of the Pythian ritual under which the order has been working since 1892. For four years Richie worked on a ritual to take the place of the one which was then in use, and it was practically completed long before the supreme lodge decided that there should be a change. Richie's ritual was adopted and two sections added after a deliberation of two years. Since 1892 there has not been a line changed.

In an interview, published in connection with the article, the conversation was as follows: "Business conditions in Ohio were never better," said Mr. Richie this morning. "There was never more money, never more manufacturing, never more orders, never more money. Farming machinery, automobiles and auto trucks are keeping the factories going full tilt. Wages have never been higher. There has been a great deal of building and loan business in Ohio for many years. Owing to the unprecedented prosperity which the state is experiencing, the working men are able to save generously from their wages and are lifting mortgages and clearing their homes from debt, making them independent."

"While Ohio is regarded as a republican state, the chances are more than good that Wilson will carry Ohio. This is because electors in Ohio have in the past voted with their heads. As they are now more prosperous than ever before it is highly probable that they will support the present administration. 'Yes,' concluded Mr. Richie, 'I am a Democrat.'

RUMMELL FUNERAL LARGELY ATTENDED

Hundreds of people from Cairo, Lima, Columbus Grove and the country thereabout, attended funeral services held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, over the body of Charles C. Rummell, Monroe township trustee, at the small German Lutheran church near his home, where the family worshipped. The Rev. C. H. Eckhardt of Lima, who served this congregation, conducted the services, paying a noble tribute to the man who was well known and greatly admired because of his qualities.

Among the many floral offerings, none was more beautiful than that sent by Amos Evans, also trustee of Monroe township, and his family. Mr. Evans was one of the pallbearers. It was Mr. Evans and Mr. Rummell who were driving together in the Evans motor car when the same was struck by the freight car on Monday morning at Stop No. 16, on the Ohio Electric railway, and Mr. Rummell was killed. Mr. Evans, who was driving the car, escaped unhurt.

The death of Mr. Rummell fell as a distinct blow upon his wife, who, a couple of years ago, sustained a stroke of paralysis and has been in ill health since. She was surrounded by all her children at the services, who lent every aid possible. Mr. and Mrs. Rummell, the former a son, came from Toledo for the services. Mrs. Rummell of Toledo, was before her marriage a few months ago, Clara Wright, daughter of Commissioner Frank Wright.

The body was laid to rest in the small German cemetery near the church, beside the body of a small child, which Mr. and Mrs. Rummell lost in infancy, and next to the graves, where repose the bodies of his aged parents.

JUDGMENT GRANTED.

Walter R. Eaton was granted judgment of $1770.50 in court against Maud E. and Grover S. Long and Anna J. and John Esmonde, Sr. Unless this amount is paid within three days, the court ordered the premises used to secure the note for this amount, be advertised and disposed of at public auction.

ADJUDGED INSANE.

Frank Roush of 331 South Union street, was given an insanity hearing yesterday in probate court and will be committed to the state hospital at Toledo. He was adjudged insane. The affidavit charging insanity was sworn to by his daughter, Jeanette Hoch, of South Union street.

HARMONY NOW!

The Democrats of the county have named the ticket which they desire to support in the November election. The failure or success of that ticket rests with the Democrats themselves, not with the Republicans or with that great body of independents which cannot be classified.

The defeated candidate in a contest is entitled to feel disappointment and perhaps resentment, but the victor should refrain from "rubbing it in" by crowing over his success. That prevents harmony. The defeated men will be "good sports" and help their winning rivals to election.

Party harmony depends on the sportsmanship of the losing factions. If the men who put up a hard fight and lose are men of broad-minded and magnanimous nature, discord is out of the question.

The Democrats have put up a ticket of real strength and should sweep the county. No personalities should be permitted to prevent this result.

"JIM COX"

James McMahon Cox, the fighting Daytonian with the ginger in his campaigning and the punch in his legislation, is again the Democratic party's candidate for gubernatorial honors. With a record of two years' progressive and constructive work against the do-nothing, haphazard, inefficient term of the present incumbent, Cox should sweep the state by a majority comparable to the kind that Harmon used to get.

Cox has been blamed for many things which he never did and robbed of the credit he deserves for many achievements. Two years ago he was accused of interfering with local fights and lost the state because of this, whereas there is little reason to believe that he knew what his managers were up to. The traveling salesmen were turned against him by the inadvertent action of a subordinate. In many ways his campaign seemed to be fraught with misfortune—but not now.

The truth has come to light on many things. Cox stands forth freed of the animosities of the former campaign, absolved of the deeds of over-zealous adherents and credited at last with the honor due his remarkable administration. Against him is pitted the pathetically impossible Francis Bartlett Willis, whose record resembles a photograph of a cloudy sky at midnight, as far as legislative light is concerned.

There isn't going to be much to it in the finish. It will be a clean sweep for Wilson, Pomerene and Cox. Ohio knows a good thing the second time if not the first.

BETTER SCHOOLS

Lima is surely getting to be the "bond-issuance" municipality on the map. And the city is doing other things in the improvement line, too. Just recall a few:

- April 25, water works extension, $550,000.
- April 25, street improvements, $100,000.
- April 25, river improvements, $100,000.
- May 10, Y. M. C. A. building, $130,000.
- August 8, better schools, $490,000.

That kind of a record will do much to put Lima in the class of real cities. The last named item, for which such efforts were made during the past fortnight, deserves special attention.

The passage of that bond issue means a new $220,000 South Side industrial high school, two new buildings, improvements for all buildings and room for the increasing school population in all quarters of the city. It means that the voters of Lima have at heart the interest of the youngsters. And that means a great deal which no figures can tell.

The "notes" of President Wilson and his accomplished secretary of state will be accepted by chancelleries of the future as models of diplomatic assertiveness. They have brought to the great American nation prosperity with honor and peace without groveling.

GOOD EVENING: Now for the alibi crop.

What Other Papers Say

INTERVENTIONIST.
In the second instalment of his story Henry Lane Wilson, formerly United States ambassador to Mexico, again makes the complete admission that the course of action toward Mexico which he strongly urged the Taft administration to adopt was disapproved by Secretary of State Knox, as it was afterward by President Wilson, on the ground that it would lead to intervention, which the United States was trying to avoid.

On Feb. 11, 1913, in a despatch to Washington, Henry Lane Wilson son: "I am convinced that the government of the United States, in the interest of humanity and in the discharge of its political obligations, should send hither instructions of a firm, drastic and perhaps menacing character, to be transmitted personally to the government of President Madero and to the leaders of the revolutionary movement. In reply he was quickly notified by Mr. Knox, President Taft's secretary of state, that the situation did not warrant such action; that it might precipitate intervention and greatly endanger the lives of Americans in Mexico, and that nothing was called for beyond the precautions already taken.

Throughout it all Henry Lane Wilson, as the official representative of the United States at the Mexican capital, showed himself hostile to Madero, the constitutional president, to whom he was accredited, and an admirer of Huerta, the despot, whom he sought to exculpate from responsibility for Madero's murder. Upon the heels of Huerta's coup d'état, Ambassador Wilson at once advised the Taft administration that "the recognition of the new government (of Huerta) was imperative", and again Secretary Knox rejected his advice.

Eight days after President Wilson had been inaugurated, Mr. Hughes' friend Henry Lane Wilson was again, in a long statement, strenuously protesting to the state department the "imperative need" of recognizing Huerta's government in order to protect it against attacks from its enemies.

The former United States ambassador to Mexico nurses two grievances—one that his friend Huerta, whose case he pleaded before two administrations, was not bolstered up in his murderous power, and the other that the United States has not intervened in Mexico. It was intervention that the Taft administration sought to avert. It is intervention that the Wilson administration, with the approval of the American people, has sought to avoid.

Henry Lane Wilson has been the principal Republican witness in favor of intervention in Mexico. So far as Mr. Hughes has a Mexican policy it is Henry Lane Wilson's. The confessions of Henry Lane Wilson give the American people a better clue to the purposes of his friend Hughes than is to be found in anything that the candidate has yet ventured to say.—New York World.

TRAVELETTE BY NIKKAI

MONTÉ CARLO.

In order to live up to its reputation, Monte Carlo would have to be a very remarkable place. Fiction fills it with adventures and adventures, with sudden wealth and sudden ruin, with frequent suicides and the wrecks of humanity who have lost their all at the gambling tables. As a matter of fact, life in Monte Carlo is, on the surface at least, exactly like life at almost any fashionable summer resort, and to people whose principles or pocket-books do not permit them to gamble, it is likely to be a good deal of a bore.

Monte Carlo is remarkable of course as the city possessing the most perfect gambling organization in the world, the one where most money changes hands daily over the tables, but it has other curious and interesting features as well. The principality of Monaco in which it lies is the smallest independent unit of government in the world, being in some places only two hundred yards wide. It has a Prince and a standing army for all that, and recently declared its entire neutrality in the European struggle. Since its army consists of about a thousand men, this must have been a great relief to all concerned.

The people of Monaco enjoy the blessings of a peculiarly paternalistic government. They are the only known citizens who pay no taxes of any sort. The country gets a huge annual income from the Casino at Monte Carlo, and has no trouble with the exchequer. Further to increase the happiness of the people's lot the government does not permit them to gamble, thus assuring itself that money saved in taxes shall go into the family stocking instead of the Casino's bank account.

The Casino of course is the great and spectacular attraction at Monte Carlo. It is likely, however, to disappoint the visitor who comes looking for excitement. Most of the people in the long rooms seem to be curious spectators, or wealthy amateurs who are not immensely interested whether they win or lose. There are plenty of tense faces, of anxious eyes and set mouths that the imaginative onlooker can use as a basis for romantic suppositions, but after all such features are not confined to the gambling rooms of Monte Carlo.

SILVER COUNTERFEITS DELUGE THE FAR EAST

SHANGHAI, Aug. 9.—The increase in the value of silver owing to the war has made silver counterfeiting profitable and China for some weeks has been flooded with bogus 20-cent pieces. The Mexican dollar is the standard in the east and the 20-cent piece is equivalent of a 10-cent piece in the United States. The coins are said to have been made in Japan and the foreign bankers of Shanghai estimate that there are ten million of them on the market. Owing to the enormous numbers that have got out the banks are puzzled what to do. Heavy losses will be sustained whatever their decision may be. The matter is complicated by the fact that private coinage is legal in China provided a tax has been paid the government for the privilege of minting. The sham coins are factory made and the workmanship is high class, but they only contain 45 per cent silver as against the usual 82 per cent.

George Downey, 48, teamster, arrested Saturday night on a charge of assault and battery, was arraigned in Justice Morris' court yesterday and pleaded guilty. He was fined $5 and costs. Downey is confined to jail until payment of fine.

HEALTHHINTS

WHAT TO DO TO RESTORE "DROWNED"

Do you know what to do in case of a "drowning" at the beach?

The Schafer or one-man method of restoring breath in those apparently drowned is one of the best emergency treatments.

Place the patient in the following position: Face downward, head in clined to one side, so that the nostrils and the mouth are exposed, allowing the tongue to fall forward toward the front teeth, so as not to obstruct the air passage.

Then kneel astride the patient, and place the palms of the hands on the victim's lower ribs, with the thumbs nearly touching in the center of the back, the fingers extending well over the sides of the ribs.

Then lean well over the patient throwing your weight on the body, and pressing the abdomen to the ground, thus expelling the air from out of the chest.

Next draw the body back sharply removing the pressure from the ribs but do not remove the hands. This draws the air into the lungs.

Keep up these two movements alternately by a steady swaying of your body. Time the act of your own breathing, which should be about 15 times to the minute.

Heat should be applied to the patient's body as early as possible. Use a hot water bottle wrapped in cloth for this purpose.

Never enter the water to swim when you feel ill.

The Light After Darkness

Much Energy is Wasted in Useless Worry.

By Beatrice Fairfax.
For darkness passes; storms shall not abide.
A little patience and the fog is past;
After the sorrow of the ebbing tide
The singing floods return in joy at last.

The night is long, and pain weighs heavily;
But God will hold his World above despair.
Look to the east, where up the lurid sky
The morning climbs! The day shall yet be fair.
—Celia Thaxter.

NOTHING IN all of life is final. Perhaps even the end of life is not final. But at least we know that everything in life itself changes, grows, moves on. Despair is the most tragic waste of which human nature is capable. What today is a wound to-morrow is only a heavy scar and a week from now perhaps but a faint mark. Even a grave is some day sure to be grass grown—a silently smiling memento of a once agonizing and tearing sorrow.

In the wisely ordained balance of our natures it has been arranged that we may adjust ourselves

NO HEADACHE OR NEURALGIA PAIN

Get a 10 Cent Package of Dr. James' Headache Powders and Don't Suffer.

When your head aches you simply must have relief or you will go wild. It's needless to suffer when you can take a remedy like Dr. James' Headache Powders and relieve the pain and neuralgia at once. Send someone to the drug store now for a dime package of Dr. James' Headache Powders. Don't suffer! In a few moments you will feel fine—headache gone—no more neuralgia pain.

through all the stages from pain to forgetting.

It is even true that joy is never more superb and splendid than when it follows misery. Think how gilded the sunshine seems when it follows the dreary day of rain. So for life itself.

Perhaps the greatest tragedy of life is the impatience—the wild unrest that says, "I am suffering. I can't bear it and I won't try. I am unhappy. Things will never be any better."

In the lovely verse by Celia Thaxter, "My Creed," there lies the germ of all philosophy. Scarcely a word of explanation is needed—only a little light on the picture.

The very keynote of sanity, of bravery, of adjustment to life lies in her philosophy. One has but to endure bravely whatever of un-

THE SPOKEN WORD

THE SPOKEN word is one of the four things, according to an oriental philosopher, which will never come back. It's like opportunity, time passed, the speed arrow, all are lost forever, never to be recalled once they have left us. But the spoken word, perhaps the smallest, yet the mightiest. How easy to say, but how hard to reckon.

Not long ago I went to a party, and sat with a young woman I liked very much. In the course of a conversation she said some things concerning a friend of ours, which surprised me by their uncomplimentary nature.

"Why," I gasped, "I thought you were one of her best friends."

"Oh, I suppose I am," she answered, "but you know as well as I do, women love to gossip."

And I realized that it is all too true, that women, lots of them enjoy picking their sister to pieces.

So day after day we let fall from our lips words, seemingly harmless, but a little spiteful, thinking that they will never be heard from after that hour. But alas little do we know about the indestructibility of matter, and these spoken words travel on and on, be it good or bad, and generally it's size increases instead of decreasing.

If every time we were going to say something we would think, "These words will never come back to me" we would leave unsaid many things that we do say, and say many things that we don't say. Then gradually our sub-conscious mind will stop every unworthy word in our heart before it gets to our lips.

PHUNNY PHILOSOPHY.

(New York Times.)

Too many of us seem to think that the time to say no is the next time.

The under dog sometimes proves that lots of us never do our best fighting until we are down.

It is easy to bear other people's burdens. They are always so much lighter than our own.

There are always two sides to a story, and the scandal monger can generally provide five or six more.

Mighty few people make the excuse of being horse when asked to sing their own praise.

Did you ever notice how a life insurance agent seems to lose interest in the welfare of your family after he goes into another line of business.

Personally we do not like lunch counter pie, even though it is better than we could make ourself.

SNAPSOTS.

If brevity is the soul of wit, some of the bathing dresses this year are extremely funny.

BATHER SCORNS SHARKS AFTER CATCHING ONE.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Aug. 9.—With in two weeks of the time he died from a pier at St. Simons Island and spent 30 minutes in the water to show frightened visitors there was no danger from man-eating sharks, C. E. Murphy, of Waycross, former postmaster, caught one of the largest "man-eaters" reported along the Atlantic coast since the start of the shark scare.

To support his contention that there is no more danger than usual from sharks, Mr. Murphy went in bathing after making his catch.

The most potent and beneficent forces are stillness. The strength of a sentence is not in its adjective, but in its verbs and nouns, and the strength of men and of nations is in their calm, sane, meditative moments. In a time of noise and hurry and materialism like ours, the gospel of the still, small voice is always seasonable.—John Burroughs.

WORK AND perseverance was awarded yesterday at the vocational schools when the prizes were given for the best progress in sewing and cooking. Miss Minnie Brown, of near Yoder, 15 years of age, who never missed a day of school, was given the prize in sewing.

Miss Esther Schnell, of North Elizabeth street, 14 years old, also missed no lessons and won the cooking prize which was a turquoise pin donated by Hughes and Son. An ivory comb and brush, from Deisel and Company, was given to Miss Brown.

Fifty-three students attended during the six weeks, and instructors were very pleased with the work that was accomplished. Night schools have been requested by a number of persons, to be given this winter under the direction of the federation. Plans however have yet been considered.

The increasing attention being given, in responsible quarters, to the question of the cinematograph and children is as welcome as it is urgently necessary. Film censorship is, of course, a useful and necessary safeguard; but, as was pointed out recently by Provost Thomson, of Montrose, it is in itself by no means sufficient where children are concerned. A film might obviously comply with all the rather attenuated demands of the censor, and yet be very far from wholesome entertainment of children, leaving adults, for the moment, out of consideration. The question is by no means an easy one, but the scheme for children's cinematograph shows, which seems to be steadily gaining in favor, has certainly much to be said for it.—Christian Science Monitor.

Dainty Picnic Sandwiches.

Nasturtium Sandwiches—Lay a Nasturtium leaf on a full slice of buttered bread; cover it with mayonnaise dressing. Fold the slice together and cut to the shape of the leaf, allowing the stem to extend beyond the edge of the sandwich. Never use much dressing, for the nasturtium is so savory itself. A lettuce leaf, sprinkled with the chopped stems of the blossoms and mayonnaise, may be substituted for the nasturtium leaf.

Raisin Sandwiches—Cut brown, whole wheat, graham or rye bread into thin slices and butter them. Make a filling by putting through the grinder equal portions of seeded raisins and English walnuts. Mix to the consistency of a paste by adding a few drops of water and a few drops of lemon juice.

An Unusual Egg Sandwich—To six hard-boiled eggs and one large onion chopped fine, add mayonnaise dressing. Spread on thin slices of bread.

Egg and Peanut Sandwiches—Run through the nut-but part of the chopper 1 cup of salted peanuts and four hard-boiled eggs. Moisten the mixture with thick cream. Spread on thin slices of white bread.

Pickaninny Delight.

Pickaninny delight is used in some parts of the south as a breakfast dish. It is always a favorite with children. Core, but do not peel, some firm baking apples; wash and slice them thin and fry brown. When done, pour over them a cup of cooking molasses that has been heated to a foam with a teaspoon of butter. The molasses must be of good grade, but not so fine as syrup. While this suits some southern palates, it is not acceptable to those unaccustomed to the free use of molasses. Pared apples divided into eights and fried in butter, with a liberal sprinkling of brown sugar and a dash of cinnamon may be preferred by some. After the sections of apple have been fried brown, they are carefully lifted and placed in rows on a hot dish, a little more sugar is added to the syrup in the pan, a sprinkling of flour to thicken, and this brown gravy is poured over the apples, and the whole served hot.

It is now announced that saddle horses are again coming into style and that a really handsome animal may be purchased anywhere from $1,500 to $3,000. This is strangely congruous of a belief prevalent among a very large and important section of the public that just as soon as automobiles began to promise to come within reach something would happen.

Those society women of Lima who can may thank their lucky stars that they have a good saddle horse. Perhaps a good idea would be to get several new riding habits. There's nothing like preparedness you know.

Daily Fashion Hint

By La Raccourcie.

A very clever midsummer hat developed on simple lines showing a narrow straight brim and deep round crown. The hat is made with buckram crown and covered with half inch white hercules braid. The brim is faced with white georgette crepe and a veil of this drops over the eyes. The green wasp affords smart trimming.

MARRYING A BUTTERFLY

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Margie Tries to Make Ethel See That She Has Not Yet Tasted the Real Joy of Living.

"SO YOU are getting along without a maid?" said Margie Folsom as she followed Ethel Gordon into the kitchen. "Do you like the freedom it gives you?"

"Freedom! Like it?" echoed Ethel stopping to stare at Margie. "You are joking, of course."

"Indeed, I am not. I never had a maid until my first baby came and I would not have one now if the children were older. I really think it is a great care to watch a maid and keep her from wasting, and destroying, even if she is honest."

"Which mine have not been," interrupted Ethel. "What I have suffered from maids would fill a book."

"That is just it. Anyone is fortunate who can get along without one," chimed in Margie.

"But, my dear, you are fortunate in knowing how to do things. I am at the mercy of servants. You will see before you get away from here. Ralph was worried when he learned you were coming for fear you would starve to death while here."

Margie laughed. "Really, it is no laughing matter. We live out of the cans and tinned food grows monotonous. Then I hate housework and I have not been able to get even a girl to wash dishes for more than two weeks at a time. She gets a job in the best factory or her natural craving for variety makes her go to another place."

"Tell me why you hate housework," Margie took her by the shoulders and turned her around so that she could look in her eyes.

"I do not like anything that has to be done over and over, day after day, the same old thing. Then—"

"But it is not the same old thing. Every day has something different. There are new dishes to try to cook."

Famous American-English Widow Weds Again.

Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, widow of Joseph Chamberlain, the spectacular statesman of British politics, who was a daughter of the late William C. Endicott, secretary of war in the cabinet in the first administration of Grover Cleveland, married the Rev. William Hartley Carnegie, rector of St. Margaret's and canon of Westminster. Mrs. Chamberlain was one of the few American women who married high in British life without having to take a fortune to her husband. Her father was not a wealthy man, not nearly so wealthy as her husband, the manufacturer of Birmingham.

LIMA SCHOOLS TO OPEN ON SEPT. 5

Only 27 days until boys and girls of Lima will pack their books and start off to school. The board of education, at their meeting last evening, said so, when they decided upon Tuesday, September 5, as the opening day of the Lima public schools.

Misses Florence Kissell and Ethel Cable resigned as teachers in the high school and B. F. House and Miss Frances D. Overman were named in their place. The Misses Roda Brown, Hazel Heuple, Lucile Slicer, Stella Pennell and Laura Fraile tendered their resignations and G. H. Ickenbarger (principal), Miss Flora A. Walker, Mrs. Mary E. Snyder and Miss Margarette Kostrup were named as teachers in the elementary schools.

House will teach in the high school, being in charge of the commercial branches. Miss Overman will be in the English department.

Just the Thing for Diarrhoea.

"About two years ago I had a severe attack of diarrhoea which lasted over a week," writes W. C. Jones, Buford, N. D. "It became so weak that I could not stand upright. A druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The first dose relieved me and within two days I was as well as ever." Many druggists recommend this remedy because they know that it is reliable. Obtainable everywhere. mon-wed-fri

SOCIALISTS PREACH PEACE IN ITALY.

ZURICH, Aug. 9.—A peace movement in Italy is gaining ground under the leadership of the Socialists. A correspondent of the Neue Zürcher Zeitung, who returned from Rome a few days ago, reports that the opposition of the working and middle classes to the war is becoming more and more pronounced on account of the deplorable economic conditions.

The results of the new offensive of the Italian army are unsatisfactory to the public and there is much bitterness against England and France, because these two countries are not furnishing the financial aid promised by them. The newspapers are beginning to discuss peace in spite of the strict censorship, and in the large cities the socialists are holding many anti-war meetings which generally are well attended.

The statements of the correspondents are confirmed by the Italian papers arriving here. Some of them urge the government to suppress the "traitorous" propaganda of the socialist leaders, while others speak in a very serious tone and concede that peace will have to come very soon, if Italy is not to be ruined.

Cure for Cholera Morbus.

"When our little boy, now seven years old, was a baby he was cured of cholera morbus by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. Sidney Simmons, Fair Haven, N. Y. "Since then other members of my family have used this valuable medicine for colic and bowel troubles with good satisfaction and I gladly endorse it as a remedy of exceptional merit." GEORGIA CONSIDERS RIGID INSPECTION BILL.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—One of the most drastic inspection bills ever enacted will soon be operative in Georgia if the senate concurs in the house action in passing the Veay bill. The measure, which is commonly known as the "Tom Watson bill," provides that grand juries at each term of the county court shall inspect all convents, orphanages, monasteries, schools, hospitals and similar institutions with a view to ascertaining their moral and sanitary condition.

The bill makes it incumbent upon the grand jurors to interview inmates of the places to ascertain if they are being detained against their will. If such is found to be the case the detained person must be rescued and punishment by imprisonment and fine or both is provided for the person responsible for such illegal detention. The measure is intended to prevent involuntary servitude in religious institutions, it being alleged that many persons are detained or coerced into remaining in such places.

TRACTION PIONEERS DIE.

AKRON, O., Aug. 9.—Will Christy, 37, vice president of the Northern Ohio Traction and Light Company and one of the pioneer in electric railroading in Ohio, died here this morning following an operation for appendicitis. Christy was one of the founders of the Firestone Tire Company, was president of the Central Savings and Trust Company and active in other banking and traction corporations.

MOTHER OF FOUR CHILDREN

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Kept Her Well and Strong.

Lincoln, Illinois.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for ten years with good results and I have four healthy children. This summer I was in a very run down condition and the very best of doctors seemed more than I could stand, but I commenced taking your Compound in June and from then until September 25th, when my last baby was born, I got along much better than I had before. My baby was a girl and weighed 11 pounds at birth, and I recovered very rapidly which I am sure was due to your medicine. I am well and strong now, nurse my baby and do all my work. I had the same good results with your medicine when needed before my other children came and they are all healthy."

My mother has taken your medicine with equal satisfaction. She had her last child when nearly 44 years old and feels confident she never would have carried him through without your help, as her health was very poor."—Mrs. T. F. CLOYD, 1355 North Gulick Ave., Decatur, Ill.

Expectant mothers should profit by Mrs. Cloyd's experience, and trust to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fierce Contest Is Raging at Baseball Park This Afternoon

The Ty Cobbs and Tris Speakers of the Firemen-Newspaper game went to the Murphy street ball park this afternoon to battle out the long-talked contest. Much rivalry exists between the two teams and the game is bound to be a hummer. The reporters will be dressed in the old toga of the independents while the firemen will wear their pretty blue suits which they recently purchased.

Industrial League Batting Averages

Thirteen batters in the industrial league are pounding the pill for .300 or more. Malloy displaced Reynolds in the lead and is batting over the .500 mark. Three are hitting .400.

The East Iron Works and Dessel-Wemmer Companies will oppose each other in Saturday's game, while the Garfords and Locomotives will come together.

The Browns are anxious to win that suit of clothes by getting into the first division. They are 15 points behind the leading quartette. Here's hoping that they get the new scenery as well as the $5,000 for jumping into the lead.

The Sox battle is still on. It was the Reds' turn to win yesterday. But the White is still in the lead.

The Indians fairly swamped the Yankees.

Kilbane Draws Color Line

NEW YORK—Johnny Kilbane, holder of the featherweight title, is the latest champion to draw the color line.

Johnny Dunn, his manager has made this announcement to Lew Raymond, matchmaker of the Harlem Sporting club, who had offered Kilbane a guarantee of $1,000 to box Lee Johnson, the colored lightweight, a ten-round bout in two weeks.

Dunn further stated that Kilbane would meet any good white lightweight that Raymond secured for him the third week in September.

If the Tigers had the Athletics as opponents for a few weeks they'd be out in front.

SHORT SPORT

The Athletics may be the joke team of the American league but they will set up a new record for straight defeats. Its now 20, tying the former mark.

Rain halted the Dodgers, Braves and Giants. In the meantime the Phillies gained half a game on the leaders by trimming the Reds.

Grace Team Defeats Germans; Baptists Tie Olivet Game

Grace defeated the German Reformed team in the scheduled Church league games, last evening by the score 6-5 at the Solar grounds. The Germans scored four of their runs on errors. The heavy stick work of Shear, Miller and Bacom was remarkable, each securing doubles when a hit means a score. Miller scored the winning run of the game by drawing a pass, stealing second and third and trotting home on a passed ball.

The next team to stalk up against the strong Lima "Champs" will be the clever aggregation of ball tossers from Dayton, the St. Mary's Cadets. According to the statement of Herring, local catcher, the Cadets are, with the exception of the Toledo Rail Lights, the strongest bunch to appear at the Murphy street lot this season. The fans will be treated to real baseball from now on.

Manager Holleran has tried to furnish the fans with high class ball, but on a couple of occasions this season the Lima management has been disappointed by visiting clubs, who were known as real ball players but failed to live up to their title. Holleran is doing all in his power to boost local sports and the fans should take off their hats to him. Show your appreciation by spending next Sunday afternoon watching a real ball game when Lima plays the Cadets.

The Baptist-Olivet game at the College grounds, proved to be the best of the two. With the score a 2-2 tie the game was called at the end of the fifth inning on account of darkness. Each team made all their runs of the game in the fourth inning.

The scores: German Ref. 2 0 0 2 1—5 4 1 Grace . . . 0 5 0 0 1—6 8 4 Baptist . . . 0 0 0 2 0—2 3 1 Olivet . . . 0 0 0 2 0—2 4 1

MARKETS

BUYING VIGOROUS ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—There was vigorous buying all around the room at the opening of the stock market today, with a number of issues selling at the highest prices touched since they were traded in on the exchange. Among these were Marine common and United Cigar stores. Many issues made gains ranging from one to four points, and although recessions occurred at the end of the first 15 minutes the market tone was strong, with the recessions offset by advances in other issues. Cigar Stores made the greatest gain on the active stocks, moving up 3 1/2 to 105 1/2, followed by a reaction to 104 1/2. Marine common rose 1/2 to 28 1/2 and the preferred 1 to 95. There was heavy trading in Maxwell Motors, which rose 1 1/2 to 80 1/2. Studebaker advanced 1 1/2 to 127 1/2. Reading was the most active of the railway stocks, advancing 1/2 to 95 1/2, and fractional gains were made in Union Pacific, St. Paul and New York Central.

Industrial Alcohol made a gain of points to 109. Steel common and Anaconda made fractional gains at the start, which were lost in the next few minutes.

American Locomotive rose a point to 70 1/2, Crucible 1/2 to 68 1/2, Baldwin 1/2 to 71 1/2. Northern Pacific, after selling up to 111 1/2, receded to 111 against 110 3/4 at the close yesterday. American Beet Sugar was actively traded in, advancing 1/2 to 87 3/4.

The strong tone was well maintained in the late forenoon when a number of stocks made further substantial gains. Most interest centered in Marine preferred which, after reacting to 93 1/2, rose to 95 1/2, a new high for the day.

Reading, after reacting to 94 1/2, rallied to 95 1/2. Advances following recessions were noted in many other issues. Baldwin gained a point to 72 1/2, International Paper preferred 5 points to 74 and the common 5 1/2 to 10 1/2. Steel common sold at 86 1/2 against 86 1/4 at the close yesterday. Money loaning at 2 per cent.

WHEAT PANICKY.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 9.—Paniclike conditions marked trading in the wheat pit at the local exchange today. It is reported that one St. Louisman was hit to the extent of nearly $500,000. Other local traders cleaned up nearly a million. Millers at noon said flour would jump to near $8.00 per barrel by night. It was quoted on the exchange at $7.50 this morning.

CHICAGO GRAIN CLOSE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—With a sensational advance in September wheat to $1.44 2-4 just before the close on the board of trade today the market, after the wildest day in years, closed only a fraction off from the highest point of the day—an advance of 11 3-4 cents over yesterday.

The late advance was caused by heavy buying by Armour and other commission houses.

Corn closed at an advance of 1-2 to 1 3-8. Oats were strong and higher. Provisions higher.

SHAWNEE TOWNSHIP VOTES HIGH SCHOOL

Electors of Shawnee township yesterday voted to erect a new high school building in that township to cost about $50,000. The vote carried by a small majority.

Three sites were voted upon for the new building. The center of the township received about 87 votes; the site at the township house 25, and the site at Snyder's Crossing, on the Western Ohio, 95 votes.

According to the resolution, the site to be decided upon must secure a majority of all the votes cast. As either failed in this, it is believed the site will be left to the board of education to decide upon.

Shawnee is one of the richest townships in the country, because, lying within its boundaries, are many of the big industries, concerns of Lima, including the Standard Oil refinery, the Steel works and the Garford manufacturing company's plant.

INFANTILE SCOURGE DEATHS INCREASING

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Infantile paralysis deaths again broke all records during the 24 hours ending at 10 a. m., today. In that period 57 died of the disease. The highest previous toll in one day was 55. The number of new cases reported today was 183.

The total of deaths and cases thus far reported are 1,251 and 5,519 respectively.

MRS. WILSON DIES.

The death of Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, 60 years of age, occurred at her home in the country near Robinson, Ill., due to asthma. The body was accompanied to Lima and taken to the home of her son Frank, at 422 North Franklin avenue, last night.

Funeral services were held at 1 o'clock this afternoon, conducted by the Rev. E. A. Parkinson, formerly pastor of the South Lima Baptist church. Interment was at Shawnee cemetery.

FRANK SCHULTE MAKING NEW RECORD FOR HIMSELF.

Frank Schulte of the Chicago Cubs is giving fandom one of the big surprises of the season by his timely and effective hitting and by his all around good playing.

This is Schulte's sixteenth year in professional baseball, 12 of which he has spent with the Cubs. Instead of slowing up with age, Schulte is growing better all the time, his playing and batting this year being the best of his long career. He is clutching the ball well above 300 and has a fighting chance to win the clubbing leadership.

COX IS GRATIFIED.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—"I am naturally gratified over the confidence reposed in me by the democracy of Ohio," said former Governor Cox in a statement issued from his Dayton home today. "The contest this year will be a plain comparison of my administration with that of Mr. Willis. In 1914 it was easy to criticize, but in 1916 the criticism of our progressive administration will have to carry with it both an explanation and defense of what was given instead."

Trade Treaties Pawns In Peace Parleys, German Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Despite the preparations now going on in Europe for a great commercial war, following the signing of peace, the struggle will never take place, according to sources here in close touch with Germany's plans.

The economic league formed between Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey, and to which the Paris trade conference was the ally's answer, was only a Teutonic threat aimed to serve as another pawn in the peace game when it comes to be played about the council board in Switzerland or Spain, in the admission of this same authority.

"Germany has no desire to bring another struggle, however bloodless it may be, when the present war is over," a high authority has said, "but on the other hand she will resist to the utmost any attempt by her enemies to deny her access to the world. She is fighting this war to break the bond which England, with the aid of her allies, was seeking to force around her. Victorious, she is to surrender the fruits that have been won by the blood of countless thousands of her sons."

"Rest assured that when peace comes, there will be no Paris trade treaties to survive. Germany will have exactly the same rights on the sea and in the markets of the world that she had before. To consent to peace otherwise would be but to bind up wounds to prepare for a fresh struggle."

When asked whether the agreements negotiated between Germany and her allies would be abandoned, this authority declared that they

DISASTERS IN MINES FATAL TO MANY

MANY "SPEECHLESS SPEECHES" IN THE OFFICIAL RECORD

Members of Congress Filling Publication With 'Bunk' These Days.

Have Opportunity to Insert 'Much Applause' and They Use It.

The speechless speaker and the seedless orange are now so widely known that they do not even cause comment, but they have nothing on the "speechless speech" from the standpoint of interest and originality.

The speechless speech is the medium through which members of congress hand out bunk to the voters at home and it is being worked to a frazzle in these pre-campaign days.

The speechless speech is the name given to the type of speech that is not really delivered in congress but is slipped in the Congressional Record via the "leave to print" route.

When the Congressional Record reaches the grocery store at Podunk, the honest old farmers crowded around the cracker barrel are filled with admiration for their congressman, the Hon. Silas Bunk; as one of their number reads the revered solon's speech in which he handed it straight to the opposition across the aisle. How could they help but admire him when his speech is interplated with such comments as "Applause," "loud and long-continued applause," and "Cheers and cries of 'Hear! Hear!'" etc.

"I guess Silas made a big hit," says the admiring farmer friends.

Addresses Never Made.

As a matter of fact the old rascal, Silas Bunk, didn't deliver the speech at all. He simply got leave to print. He wrote in those words about applause and the like himself. Nobody applauded; nobody cheered; nobody ever saw or heard Silas Bunk's speech until it appeared in the Record.

In other words, the good, old farmers congregated around the cracker barrel at Podunk were fooled by a speechless speech.

The Congressional Record is simply groaning with its load of speechless speeches these days. The Ashbrook widows' pension bill has given rise to a regular flood of them. After that measure had been passed by the house, when the discussion could no longer contribute in any way to its character, Representative Ashbrook, its author, made the usual request in this language:

"Mr. Speaker, I ask the unanimous consent that all members have five legislative days in which to extend remarks in the Record on this bill."

There was an objection, whereupon a score of congressmen responded by chucking speechless speeches into the Record. This particular leave to print swelled the volume of the Record enormously for days. Ashbrook's request that members be permitted to print speeches or this particular bill illustrates a common practice. Few important actions are taken in congress which are not followed by such a blanket permission for all members to indulge in undelivered, post legislative speeches.

Bill Had Been Passed.

In his leave to print on the Ashbrook pension measure one Indiana member "said" four days after the bill had passed.

"Pass this bill and be just to those who are already victims of war's cruel hardships and thereby assure those of the future they will not suffer neglect."

Representative Helvering of Kansas said in his extended remarks: "Mr. Speaker, coming now to the immediate bill before the house—when the bill had been passed for days."

Through the same leave-to-print medium, days after the bill had been passed, Representative Shouse of Kansas said:

"Let us, therefore, pass this bill, not as partisans, but as patriots—performing an act of simple justice in which we should all rejoice."

Representative "Cyclone" Davis of Texas, in a speechless speech which appears in the Record of May 2 was very liberal in handing out applause to himself. He made a special hit with himself when he described the difference between the rules committee's actions under the present Democratic and the former Republican regime.

"The difference between the two," says "Cyclone" in his speechless speech, "is that the rules committee under Republicans had a habit of blocking legislation in the farmers' interests and saddling a lot of trusts and combines on the farmers and the country; but when the Democratic rules committee has the courage to bring out legislation to help the farmers, to open the door of hope to that class who drink warm seltzer water out of a cooler, my God, I want to congratulate the committee on rules."

Having looked over this part of his speechless speech, "Cyclone" pronounced it good and before sending it to the printer wrote "Applause" in parenthesis after it. At another place in his speechless speech he inserted "Applause on the Democratic side."

In the daily congressional record, leave-to-print speeches are marked "Extension of Remarks" and printed in the back of the record apart from the bona fide proceedings. But when the permanent edition of the congressional record is published these undelivered speeches, with the phrase "Extension of Remarks" editorially amputated are moved up and get a place in the report of the proceedings to which they are supposed to relate.

For example, in the permanent record for this session the undelivered speeches of Helvering, Shouse, "Cyclone" Davis and many others, will be advanced from the date of printing to the date of supposed delivery. These speeches will then appear as part of the proceedings when the house really considered the legislation to which they refer.

When this metamorphosis is completed the speechless speech will stand on all fours of his brother, the spoken speech.

The Best Laxative.

To keep the bowels regular the best laxative is outdoor exercise. Drink a full glass of water half an hour before breakfast and eat an abundance of fruit and vegetables. Also establish a regular habit and be sure that your bowels move once each day. When a medicine is needed take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are pleasant to take and mild and gentle in effect. Obtainable everywhere.

FIREMAN LAIN UP.

Jeane Bannister, city fireman, was removed to his home, 211 Water street, yesterday morning in Chief Mack's automobile. Bannister was sick August 2, but went back to work Saturday. The change in the weather yesterday had a bad effect on him and he was forced to go to bed. Rheumatism settled in his ankle. Bannister is employed at the West Side hose house.

Mrs. Elsworth Maggard of Wapakoneta, is ill at the home of her mother, Mrs. William Wright of 1136 North Elizabeth street. Mrs. Elizabeth Beckhold and daughter, Erma, and Mrs. M. Dietz of Wapakoneta, came yesterday to Lima to visit Mrs. Maggard.

TOO MUCH WORK; TOO LITTLE EXERCISE; LIVER NOT ACTING

A Wineglassful of Tollo Water Cleans the Liver and Bowels, Makes You Feel Fine in Thirty Minutes.

Concentrated Tollo Water from Dawson Springs, Kentucky, will relieve your clogged liver, really give it a bath, flushing and emptying every tiny bile tube and start you feeling fine in thirty minutes. It gives you quick relief from constipation, biliousness and stomach troubles when your drugs have failed. It brings about natural action of the liver and bowels, cleaning out the clogged bile ducts and removing all the poisonous waste matter from the system.

Your habits of life—too little exercise, too much work, lots of rich food—require an occasional liver bath to remove the obstructions from the bile tubes and keep your liver, stomach and bowels clean and healthy.

Get a 15-cent bottle of Tollo Water from your druggist. Before breakfast take a third of a tumblerful in a glass of plain water. In thirty minutes it will clean out the liver and stimulate the flow of the bile, which is nature's only laxative. You will at once have a clear head and a feeling of energy and ambition that will surprise and delight you. Keep taking it for a few days and your usual good health and color will return. After that an occasional wineglassful before breakfast will keep your liver active and your bowels regular.

A Three Days Remnant Sale--at Bluem's

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of This Week

Odds and Ends of Fresh, Clean Merchandise Going at Prices Way Below Cost.

Each Department Contributes Something--Many of Them a Good Assortment of Seasonable Goods

It will more than repay you for time spent in visiting our store the next three days when we offer many unusual values in fresh, clean Summer merchandise at a mere fraction of its actual worth. But we must clean up all odds and ends to make room for new Fall stocks which will soon arrive in great quantities. You still have at least 2 months for using these goods, which makes the sale of double value to yourself. Be sure to get your share.
